Simmons University Student
Guide to Summer

This guide will provide summer students with information on the services available for the summer on-campus and will provide guidance on campus COVID policies and expectations.

Campus Based Resources
Although the campus is not closed during the summer, many campus-based services are more limited. This guide will help provide you with the information you need to navigate the campus over the summer.

Counseling Center
The Counseling Center will be closed from May 23th until August 29th. During that time:

- If you have a mental health emergency, please call 911 or go to your nearest emergency room. (If you are on campus, please call Public Safety).
- If you need to speak with someone about a mental health concern, or want help finding a therapist, please visit the Student Assistance Program and reach out to the appropriate service provider.
- Students who are current clients of Dr. Samuel Sheffield can reach him over the summer at samuel.sheffield@simmons.edu.

Health Center
If you are experiencing a medical emergency on-campus, please call Public Safety at 617-521-1111. If you are experiencing a medical emergency off-campus, please call 911. The Health Center will close for in-person appointments from May 23 - August 14, 2022. From May 23 - June 30, a provider will be available by telephone to address time-sensitive medical concerns during weekday business hours. This provider can be reached by contacting Public Safety. Non-urgent medical concerns, such as prescription refill or administrative requests, can be left on the Health Center voicemail or emailed to healthcenter@simmons.edu. These non-urgent concerns will be addressed on the next business day. The Health Center will be closed from July 1 - August 15, 2022. For medical care during this time period, please contact your local urgent care center or primary care physician. See the Health Center website for detailed information about local resources. See below information regarding COVID Testing.

Campus COVID Policies
We anticipate that the campus will be less populated during the summer. As a result of rising COVID-19 positivity rates on campus, we are reinstating the indoor mask requirement at Simmons – effective Friday, May 13, 2022, until further notice. Masks will be required indoors unless eating or drinking, or in a private office. This also applies to all on-campus events. Check the Protecting our Community Website for additional updates. The testing site will be open through the end of June, although weekly testing will not be required after May 13, 2022. Students who test positive between July 1 and August 30 should alert the Summer COVID Team at covidtesting@simmons.edu. The Summer COVID team includes:

Kaylen Addison
Jacob Bennett
Anna DeBenedictis

The team can be reached at covidtesting@simmons.edu. Below are the steps you should follow if you test positive over the summer:

- Immediately begin isolating upon receiving your test result. You should isolate for 5 days (this period is calculated from the onset of symptoms, or if asymptomatic, from the date of a positive test). This means you do not leave your room for anything other than using the bathroom, picking up a food delivery, or getting medical attention, and you should wear a tight-fitting mask when doing so.
- After 5 days, if you have no symptoms or your symptoms are resolving, you may end isolation. If symptoms have not improved, you should continue to isolate until symptoms dissipate.
- You should continue to wear a mask at all times for an additional 5 days after your isolation period ends.
- Masks are not required while sleeping during your isolation or post-isolation period, though if you have a roommate, your beds should be arranged so that your heads are six feet apart.

Contact tracing
The CDC has ended its recommendation for universal contact tracing, so the university will not conduct its own contact tracing for students and employees after May 20. Any student or employee who tests positive should do their best to notify anyone they spent any significant time with in the two days before a positive test or the onset of symptoms, whichever came first.

Students who are enrolled in summer classes are expected to inform their professors if they will need to miss class for isolation or quarantine, as they would for any other illness.

Residential students
Students living in the residence halls during the summer who test positive will be given the option of returning to their off-campus home to isolate or isolate in their summer residence room. Students who choose to remain on campus will be responsible for their own meals and will be able to pick up food from delivery drivers while wearing a tight-fitting mask. If students have a roommate, it is best to wear a mask when in their room when they can but are not required to wear their mask to sleep. Students in isolation will use an assigned bathroom designated for those in isolation. COVID-positive students should wear a mask anytime they’re in the hallways. Residence Life will post signage on the bathroom door to notify the community that it is in use for isolation purposes.

Roommates of students who test positive and remain in their room will be given the option of remaining in the room or going home. Unfortunately, given the highly transmissible nature of the current variants, and the fact that most people who test positive were contagious two days before symptoms appeared, it is likely that roommates will have already been exposed to the virus and must be treated as close contacts. If the close contact has not tested positive for COVID-19, is vaccinated, and has received a booster, they must continue to wear a mask around others for 10 days, then get tested for COVID-19 5 days following notification of a positive roommate. If the student is not boosted, they will need to quarantine for 5 days then continue wearing a mask at all times for an additional 5 days. If the contact develops symptoms, they should get tested and continue to isolate in place.
